Statewide

Annual Renewal of Revocable Permits on the Islands of Hawaii, Maui, Molokai, Kauai and Oahu

BACKGROUND:

On November 16, 2007, under agenda item D-1, the Board approved, as amended, the continuation of the revocable permits listed in Exhibit A, on a month-to-month basis for another one-year period up to December 31, 2008, except for permits that are in arrears of rental payment for more than 60 days and/or have been approved for forfeiture by a separate Board action. With the amended Board Action, the Board also approved a nominal 3% increase in the rents for permits under the Commercial, Industrial or Baseyard/Storage category, to reflect the rising trend in rents for these types of properties.

Previously, on April 22, 2005, the Land Board, under agenda item D-17, approved methodologies to review rents of revocable permits for future years. The Land Board was presented with a variety of alternative methodologies by which to review the revocable permits statewide. In summary, Method 1 involved sampling at least 10% of each type of RP on each island. Method 2 involved conducting individual appraisals, if necessary, of each permit. Method 3 considered the use of the Consumer Price Index to apply adjustments to the rent. Method 4 involved interviews and research. Method 5 considered a periodic scheduled review based on the permit type or use. Staff then evaluated each methodology, as shown below from an excerpt from the Board submittal on April 22, 2005, agenda item D-17, and recommended the Board approve a blend of various methods specific to each appraisal type, for the reasons repeated below.

EVALUATION OF ALTERNATIVES

Staff believes Methods 1 and 2 are time consuming and should only be considered where necessary. These methods require substantial staff resources for research, analysis, and possibly travel. Currently, the Appraisal Section is comprised of one staff appraiser. Method 3, using the indices, would not address rural and outer island properties appropriately. The CPI and most other indices focus on large metropolitan areas and may not accurately reflect changes in land values.

Method 4 is both a feasible and reasonable alternative among those discussed above for reviewing rent for commercial, industrial and residential-type permits. Since these types of permits are most likely to be affected by changes in the real estate market and economy, this method adequately tracks recent trends in rents. Discussions with local real estate experts such as brokers, property managers, appraisers, and consultants is considered the best way to gain insight and knowledge of local real estate trends. Most major brokerages are fairly active in these real estate segments and would have the market data required for making fairly accurate adjustments to permit rents.

Method 5 makes the most sense for the review of agricultural, pasture, and landscaping-type permits. Because these types of permit rents appear to be relatively stable and less influenced by market fluctuations, staff feels a predetermined schedule of review based on the nature of these permits, in conjunction with Methods 3 and/or Method 4, is appropriate. This would allow staff to dedicate resources to other appraisal needs such as new dispositions and lease reopenings. Since most long-term ground leases contain step-ups or reopenings every ten years, staff recommends that access/utility, parking, community and government, landscaping and recreation permits similarly should be reviewed every 10 years. Past history has shown that agriculture and pasture rents have not been very volatile. Farm price of beef, which has been relatively stable, is more of an influence on pasture rents. Therefore, staff feels periodic review every five years is appropriate for agriculture and pasture permits.

Fee simple residential values have been growing in recent years, however the leasehold market has remained relatively stable. Discussions with appraisers and real estate brokers have indicated that with the influx of fee home and condo construction on the upswing, market participants would still look favorably upon a fee purchase before considering leasehold property. Residential RP's are considered leasehold because the tenants occupy state land. Therefore, staff feels periodic reviews every five years for residential permits is appropriate.

Proposed Methodology

The methodologies summarized below were approved by the Land Board on April 22, 2005, under agenda item D-17, in reviewing RP rents:

Permit Type	Methodology	Reason	Next Scheduled Review
Access/utility easements, Parking	Methods 4 and 5 – Review RP rents once every 10 years, utilizing market interviews and research to arrive at percentage adjustments, if any.	Permit rents stable.	1/1/2015
Agricultural and Pasture	Methods 4 and 5 - Review RP rents once every 5 years, utilizing market interviews and research to arrive at percentage adjustments, if any.	Permit rents fairly stable. Cost/benefit ratio justifies.	1/1/2010
Baseyard/Storage; Commercial; Industrial	Methods 3 and 4 – Review RP rents each year based on a review of market indices, interviews and research to arrive at percentage adjustments, if any.	Detailed, annual market research will ensure rents will reflect market.	Annually
Community; Government	Methods 4 and 5 – Review RP rents once every 10 years, utilizing market interviews and research to arrive at percentage adjustments, if any.	Permit rents stable.	1/1/2015
Landscaping; Recreational	Methods 4 and 5 – Review RP rents once every 10 years, utilizing market interviews and research to arrive at percentage adjustments, if any.	Permit rents stable. Cost/benefit ratio justifies.	1/1/2015
Residential	Methods 3, 4 and 5 – Review RP rents every 5 years based on a review of market indices, interviews, and	Timely adjustments to rents will track closely to market.	1/1/2010 research to determine whether adjustments are warranted.

The Staff Appraiser should have the discretion to account for specific circumstances and to make adjustments (which will be explained in the appraisals).

In conformance with the Board action on April 22, 2005, staff will focus on the current real estate market trends affecting the commercial and industrial revocable permits, statewide. The other categories are to be reviewed per the recommended schedule as summarized above. Therefore, for the remaining permits not classified as commercial, industrial, or baseyard/storage, staff is recommending no changes to those permit rents at this time.

RESEARCH:

While conducting staff review of commercial and industrial permit rent, interviews with real estate professionals and research of available market studies were conducted. The trends, which were apparent from last year's research, appear to be tapering as the economy has slowed. An assortment of real estate participants were surveyed to gain insight into market rent trends in the commercial and industrial sectors. Market reports on the industrial, office, and retail markets were also researched.

Industrial Sector

According to local real estate appraisers, they all agree that the local industrial market is experiencing some stabilization or decline from the affects of a slowing economy and higher fuel prices. These factors contribute to a slower construction industry and layoffs at several major companies as companies downsize or shut down such as the case with Aloha Airlines, ATA and Molokai Ranch. The current industrial vacancy rate near 4% is the highest since 2002, reflecting a trend of negative absorption. This is in stark contrast to the last several years where vacancies were around 2% and rents were escalating, peaking late last year at around $1.31 per sq. ft. per month. Current asking rents of $1.26 reflect a 3.92% decrease from the peak rent established at the end of 2007. Vacancy rates are also increasing in certain areas such as Gentry Business Park. The forecast is for negative absorption and vacancy rates rising to 4.5% to 5% at least through 2009. Colliers reports industrial land prices appear to remain healthy. At the current prices, development appears limited to owner-users, design-builds, or industrial condo projects.

The forecast is for continued stabilization of the industrial sector as rental rates remain flat or decline some. Vacancy rates are on the rise as companies downsize or shut down and additional industrial space inventory planned in the last couple years comes online this year. The declines in most sectors in the construction industry also contribute to the general decline in industrial space users.

Reports from various professionals on the neighbor islands also indicate a slowing economy from a drop in tourism, hotel layoffs and contraction in the business sector. A Hilo based appraiser has indicated vacancies are increasing to a 7% to 10% range which is higher than previous years and marketing times for listings are fairly long, maybe up to a year or more. Rents for industrial space is stable, however much of the space is occupied by owner users. This appraiser predicts vacancies may start to move higher in the near term, however prices and rents are currently holding steady. She thinks prices and rents may drop if the economy remains stagnant.

An appraiser based on Maui indicates land values beginning to stabilize or decline after years of growth. He indicates this is due primarily from a slow down of the visitor industry, real estate and construction market downturns, and volatile financial sectors. Commercial vacancies are on the rise due to real estate and mortgage companies are vacating their spaces for smaller space or shutting down. Industrial vacancies are also increasing due to closing of smaller sub-contractors and service companies. There are very few new large construction projects scheduled.

A Kauai appraiser indicates commercial and industrial rents and land values are still holding at levels from last year but foresee some leveling of growth and stabilization. Properties with good frontage and exposure can still command premium rents. Improved properties have been slightly more marketable due to the high cost of labor, materials and construction.

Research indicates industrial land values are maintaining value but space rents are either holding or declining. Therefore, staff proposes no change in rent for all permits related to industrial and baseyard/storage purposes.

Commercial Sector

According to various market reports such as Colliers, retail and commercial rents, after four or five years of consistent growth, appear to be stabilizing with very slight increases in average rents due to the economy. However, CAM costs have risen dramatically due to increased energy and commodity costs. Between 2003 and 2008, average retail rents have risen from $2.35 per sq. ft. per month to $3.38, indicating a 44% increase. However, this trend appears to slowing, with rent increasing only a modest 2% over the past year. Rents had been increasing by double digits from 2004 to 2007.

While rent growth has stabilized, positive absorption is continuing with new space being occupied by formerly vacant space. The old JC Penney site at Pearlridge is almost 88% leased. Furthermore, the Nordstrom wing at Ala Moana is almost full. Net absorption over the past six months totaled 386,369 square feet. Oahu's overall vacancy rate is 3.35% at mid-year 2008, slightly higher than the 3.31% at the end of 2007. The retail sector appears to be relatively healthy with vacancy holding steady and new projects in the pipeline such as the Whole Foods development in the Ward area and new neighborhood retail projects in Pearl City. The forecast for retail is of cautious optimism. Whole Foods has recently decided to downsize its planned store in the Ward area to half the original floor area. Closures of retailers in the Leeward area such as Ashley Furniture, Comp USA and Marukai have market observers wary of a market downturn. Some of the planned retail projects, such as in Kapolei, may be reevaluated if the market continues to soften and financing becomes more difficult.

A mid year Colliers report indicates the office market continues to weaken. The Oahu market experienced a fourth straight quarter of negative absorption, losing more than 64,000 sq. ft. since last year. Approximately 190,000 sq. ft. of space has been lost over the past year. Market participants are concerned with a flat visitor market, rising fuel prices, business closures, and job loss. Vacancy is at 8.12%, the highest level since 2006. Class A space vacancy is at 10%, the same as 2005 after peaking at 14.75% from a few years earlier when the economy was still recovering. The office market is also experiencing stabilization in rent growth. From 2002 to 2007, rent had increased almost 30%. The escalation of rent has since modestly increased by 1.23% over the last six months with the rise in operating expenses accounting for a major portion of this increase. Average asking rent for Class A space has increased from $1.62 per sq ft. per month to about $1.82 per sq. ft. Colliers forecasts a negative absorption for the remainder of the year and rents are not expected to rise with the increase in operating expenses being passed through to tenants. Any increase in gross rents will be reflected by an adjustment to CAM charges.

The office market is somewhat more insulated from economic volatility compared to the industrial and retail sectors. Thus, as residential real estate slows down, tourism stagnates, and construction tapers off, the office market will be affected more as a trickle down effect but will recover after the industrial and retail markets.

The neighbor islands are reporting similar conditions. Increased office vacancies on Maui are an indicator of a contraction in real estate and mortgage related businesses. Along with the slowing tourism and construction industries, more space is on the market with longer marketing times.

The Big Island is also reporting a downturn with layoffs at some major resort hotels and other business. This is likely caused by a drop in visitor counts from decreased cruise ship business and airline arrivals. Sales of commercial properties is slowing and days on market are significantly longer, possibly up to a year. There is a significant increase in supply of properties for sale and lease on the commercial sector. Vacancies are around 10%.

On Kauai, commercial space rents are feeling the pinch with more space available this year than in the past few years. Real estate and mortgage businesses have either downsized or closed due to the slow down. The commercial space planned or newly constructed is apparently for owner users and not for investment.

Research indicates office rents are flat and increases are primarily from increased operating expense pass through to tenants. The retail sector appears to maintaining growth from new product coming online or the occupancy of recently vacated space. Rents are stable but operating expenses are increasing. Similar to industrial and baseyard permits, staff proposes no change in rent for all permits related to commercial use.

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Board approves:

- A. Approve the continuation of the Revocable Permits listed in Exhibit A on a month-to-month basis for another one-year period through December 31, 2009, except for permits that are in arrears of rental payment for more than 60 days and/or have been approved for forfeiture by a separate Board action. Permits in arrears of rental for 60 days or more and/or approved by the Board for forfeiture shall not be renewed.
- B. Approve no change in current monthly rent through December 31, 2009 for Revocable Permits as listed in Exhibit A, provided however, that the Land Board reserves the right at any time to review and reestablish new rental charges for any Revocable Permit to reflect market conditions or the fair market rental for the rights and privileges granted by such Revocable Permit.
